

NO to cell phone use on airplanes!!! Some people are wed to there phones an evidenced by the minions who cannot drive to the corner store without firing up their cell phones. Business people who believe they are so important that all would stop without hourly contact with their office. Mindless unneccesary chatter is noise polution! First we lost in-flight meals for economical reasons, fine, but I do not want to lose the little bit of sanity that is afforded air travelers because someone thinks that they have to give Aunt Minnie a minute by minute report of their progress to her house. In the advent that someone needs to maintain cell phone contact for emergency reasons, seat them in the back of the plane, and keep in mind that gabbing with your spouse or regular contacts with your office (to show everyone how important you are) does not constitute an emergency. Restaurants, theaters, etc. have recognized how disturbing cell phone use is to their patrons, are the airlines deaf!
